The problems we face

Two powerful women on what lies ahead

PLEASANTON — The complexities and frustrations of public service life were echoed Wednesday by two prominent Valley women self-exiled into that sticky morass called politics.

County Supervisor Valerie Raymond and Livermore Mayor Helen Tirsell spoke of their respective political problems at an American Association of University Women meeting Wednesday night at Fairlands School.

Joan Kinney, publisher of the Independent, told of the intellectual freedom allowed women in today's society, especially in the "Renaissance" type atmosphere that exists in the Valley.

Raymond, six weeks into her job as representative of a quarter-million south county residents, began the meeting with an assessment of the area's three biggest problems.

She termed the upcoming March 1 vote on whether to rebuild Santa Rita prison pre-trial facilities "rather a hot potato." An alternative proposal to build replacement facilities in Oakland and Hayward "revolves around how many beds the county feels is necessary to provide as a replacement number," the 36-year-old Livermore resident said.

A study on what to do with the rest of Santa Rita is nearing completion and would provide further controversy, she added.

The reclamation of gravel quarrying lands was a great concern, Raymond said, but the county is not as powerful to deal with it as some people might think.

"Most of the gravel companies have been granted permits in the past which have unlimited time frames to them, so there are some limits to what the county

Water unit sees bond vote again

LIVERMORE — A May or November special election to vote on a sewage disposal bond measure will be held in the Valley, water board officials determined last night.

The Livermore-Amador Valley Water Management Agency (LAVWMA) narrowed its options to three last night. The first two would provide for an export pipeline election on May 31, while the third would allow any disposal alternatives, including reclamation, to be considered on a November 8 ballot.

The first alternative calls for a broadly worded ballot, which would subsequently allow any of three export lines — to outfalls in Suisun Bay, or north or south San Francisco Bay. But the electorate would not know on which project it is voting.

The second option, also on a May ballot, would be identical to that offered last November, a pipeline to the north bay, at a $16 million increase. Reclamation could possibly be incorporated at a later date.

The November election option would allow LAVWMA members time to consider all alternatives with the best supposedly offered to voters. But residents might be forced to pay higher monthly costs for a short period.

Deadline nears

Amador teachers face strike vote

Amador Valley High School District teachers are four days away from taking a strike vote that could send 210 district instructors out on the street and shutdown four schools.

A discussion of the issues involved in the currently deadlocked contract talks will precede a possible strike vote Tuesday afternoon at 3 p.m. at Shannon Park Community Center in Dublin.

Dave Woolworth, president of the Amador Valley Secondary Educators Association which has 194 paid members, said Tuesday's gathering could be a stormy one. However, the Dublin High industrial arts instructor predicted that teachers would undoubtedly take a strike vote.

Should any vote taken favor a walkout, teacher unit leaders would undoubtedly wait the outcome of a fact - finding session held last week in the Pleasanton Joint School District.

Amador teacher leaders want to see how district administration reacts to the results of fact-finding.

Trustees of the embattled Amador Valley Joint High School District were to meet in special, closed session this morning at 7 to review the recent Superior Court decision which effectively unfreezes teachers' salaries.

Superintendent Bruce Newlin said the district will probably proceed with an appeal to a District Court of Appeals. Newlin has also contacted the state offices of the Association of California School Administrators (ACSA) and California School Boards Association (CSBA) in hopes they will file amicus curiae or friend - of - the - court petitions in support of the Amador district board and administration.

Another special board meeting held last night, by the Pleasanton district trustees, dealt with the annual evaluation of principals and vice principals, and reportedly had no reference to stalled contract talks in the elementary district.

Candidates' night set

Livermore school board candidates will be in the spotlight Wednesday night, Feb. 23, when the Junction Avenue School PTA and the League of Women Voters co - sponsor a candidates' night at the school.

The meeting begins in the multi - purpose room at 7:30 p.m. and the public is invited.

The evening will open with a statement from each candidate. After that, written questions from the audience will be answered by the candidates.

League members Joanne Angvick and Helen Robinson will direct the evening as moderator and timekeeper.

Planners delay noise rule

Livermore planning commissioner Tuesday put the proposed noise element of their city's general plan back on ice for a while. The 46 page document was tabled because of possible inconsistencies that could arise with a noise ordinance being prepared.

The document had been recommended for adoption a year ago, according to Community Development Director Manny Gorland, but was returned to the planners for editing.

Wear your glass slippers

Two final performances of Roger and Hammerstein's musical "Cinderella" take the stage at the Amador High Auditorium Saturday at 1:30 and 8 p.m. Admission is $1.75 for adults and $1.50 for students and senior citizens. The fantasy is presented by the Amador Creative Theatre directed by Adele Denny, and student director, Madonna Biringer. Hal Coburn is the dashing prince who falls in love with Cinderella, played by Mary Frapwell. Linda Thrapp is the evil stepmother who coaches the silly stepsisters portrayed by Laura Collins and Kelley Purrington.

Candidate holds rally

Roll out the flat-bed truck and strike up the band for the big rally in support of Larry Riera, candidate for Honorary Mayor of the Valley, at the Albrtson's parking lot in Dublin on Saturday, Feb. 19 from noon to 4 p.m. Riera represents the Dublin Lions Club which is sponsoring the friendly competition among candidates from six valley clubs for the honorarium. He will provide free live entertainment, baloons for the kids and a parade led by Brownie Troop 830 of Dublin which will collect "votes" in the form of donations to Lions' projects for the blind. Other candidates for the office of Honorary Mayor will make an appearance at the rally.

No house calls

Pleasanton city council outlawed massage outcalls Monday night.

The massage ordinance still allows a massage parlor in a regional shopping center and in the home, if the applicant meets all the conditions of a home occupation use permit.

In reviewing the ordinance, Vice - mayor Joyce LeClaire objected to the sexist wording of the ordinance and asked that it be changed so that the definitions of masseuse and masseur are on an equal footing grammatically.

The council's move was prompted by objections from neighbors about Lin Young's request for an outcall massage permit. Young earlier requested a permit to do massage commercially in her home, but that was denied by the planning staff in response to telephone complaints from neighbors.

Dons, Pokes romp

Amador Valley stayed ahead in the East Bay Athletic League girls' basketball race last night with a 55-26 win over San Ramon.

Pleasanton ponders police personnel

PLEASANTON — The long - awaited Las Positas overcrossing took another back seat last Monday, this time to two important considerations and an Assembly bill.

Council members discussed briefly the priorities of future ballot issues in the city and agreed that the top one should be a tax override for additional police and fire personnel.

The staff recommends six sworn officers and four support personnel on the police department at an estimated tax override increase of 15 cents. In the fire department, addition of nine people to bring all engine companies up to three people at all times would cost 14 cents on the tax rate.

Council members made no commitment on whether they would go for all of the recommended personnel. Instead they postponed any long discussion of the issue for two weeks to see whether or not the Livermore Amador Valley Wate Management Agency will go to the ballot May 31 with a proposal to finance a solution to the Valley's sewage disposal woes.

Commenting on the priority of the police and fire personnel over the Las Positas overcrossing, Council Member Ken Mercer said that he wants to see how well Assemblyman Floyd Mori's bill for preliminary overpass financing fares in this session of the Legislature.

Council Member William Herlihy suggested that the city might wait until assessed valuation rises in a year or two so there will be enough money to hire public safety personnel without resorting to a tax override.

The real reason(s) for drought

SAN FRANCISCO — Break out your umbrellas, it's going to rain by March 2.

But "major" storms unleashed in March and April by a blindly benevolent, sometimes thoughtless nature, will not provide relief from the drought.

Our dry spell will last three years or 10 years. It may presage the coming of a mini ice age, or it may stave off the ice age. Then again, it could be the harbinger of a return to earth's "normal, rotten weather."

Or a Russian ploy.

You pays your nickel and you picks your tune.

Thus four of five scheduled psychics gathered in the cavernous "World of the Unexplained" along tourist stained Fisherman's Wharf yesterday to put a damper, so to speak, on the befuddled machinations of "official" meteorologists.

Parapsychologist Nick Nocerino failed to materialize.

The four do not compete with the weather bureau, they emphasized, but offer psychic understanding rather than dry computations for their weather predictions.

And like the meteorologists, physicists, chemists and teevee weather announcers, they differ in the "why" and the "where to" of our weird weather.

"Psychic Magazine" editor Alan Vaughan, earthquake predictor Clarisa Bernhardt, author Philip Bonewits and astrologer Shirley Dicker agree on one thing — the weather is changing worldwide.

(U.S. Weather Bureau officials would not come, a spokesman for the sponsoring agency said. "They felt insulted.")

But the psychics' explanations range from the lack of psychic energy (Dicker), to the "greenhouse" theory caused by pollution of the earth's atmosphere (Bonewits).

This spring's storms will be "major and violent," predicts Dicker.

No. They'll be minor and the drought will last three more years, says Vaughan.

It will rain by March 2, says Bernhardt.

On the other hand, American Indians in the Yosemite Valley are organizing for a massive rain dance, warns Bonewits, and the Buddhists are holding a rain festival in Golden Gate Park this Saturday.

It's the Buddhists' use of psychic energy that has held our major earthquake at bay. Didn't they tell you?

Bernhardt, who reportedly predicted on radio the Thanksgiving Day earthquake of 1974 in Hollister, says the record drought is from destruction of the ozone layer and increasing smog. "It's fighting and keeping the rain from coming in," she claims.

The result? "A very heavy political battle" in the state over the north - south allocation of water, adds Bonewits, U.C. Berkeley's first graduate with a degree in magic.

And with the rapidly increasing value of water, technology will turn to de-salianation. "There'll be profit in it now," says Bonewits.

On the other hand, there's the theory that holds the Russians have been conducting "some very odd experiments" with magno - electronic waves in the atmosphere, he reminds his peers. They could be messing with our weather to weaken us.

Could the drought be a Communist conspiracy?

After all, he predicts lettuce at $1.50 a head. "Everything's going to skyrocket."

But "thoughts are things," says Bernhardt, who adds she wants to "take the spooky out of the psychic." Maybe "positive thinking" can change our weather pattern.

She suggests people in the Bay Area pick a specific time of a certain day and "quietly visualize rain."

No, warns Bonewits. "Leave weather magic to the experts. It can be dangerous."

Could the drought have something to do with the "water signs" of astrology?

No, says Dicker, you can't blame it on the Pices.

P. T. Barnum would have been proud.

What lies ahead

can do. However, just about all of them have to come in over the next few years for reclamation permits of one kind or another. So the county does have some options about requirements it can impose on the gravel companies with their reclamation permits.

"Some of the things we'll be looking at is the adequacy of the reclamation plans themselves, the ways of financing those reclamation plans and of particular concern to me is trying to resolve the issue of reducing or eliminating the existing gravel truck traffic through the City of Pleasanton."

Land use is the third problem of great concern, especially whether to allow New Town to house 45,000 people north of Livermore. That growth would have a great impact on Valley resources, "and I'm not going to make any predictions on that because I don't know where te votes are," she said.

"I personally have a great many problems with the proposed New Town, certainly the most controversial part of the (general) plan amendment, and I think it important that Valley citizens make their voices heard."

Raymond criticized the lack of a listed set of priorities under which supervisors should operate, saying this causes a waste of both time and money in trying to solve problems.

"The needs assessment has certainly not been in-depth in most areas, and the county and a lot of other groups too are spending a great deal of money without any kind of plan or structure with which to set priorities."

She estimated that 1000 agencies in Alameda County are spending $660 million "on various kinds of social and health services, and this is all being done without any kind of overall plan."

Mayor Tirsell, a one-year member of the Livermore - Amador Valley Water Management Agency (LAVWMA), which is trying to cope with the sewer crisis, said her biggest discouragement is working on a wastewater disposal solution.

Most agencies LAVWMA deals with are "myopic," she says, concerned only with one aspect of a much larger problem. She admitted there was no easy solution, or even one in sight.

One of the biggest crises facing people are the shortages of energy and water, Tirsell says. "As municipalities, as the closest unit of government, we've got to begin thinking about those days, not so far ahead, when there won't be energy, we won't drive fast, we'll be hot in the summer, we may not have enough water, our lawns will burn up."

Shortages of water, energy and sewage capacity would be severly compounded with the development of New Town, she said. She asked citizen involvement to help fight that approval.

"Those who stand to gain financially are always there (at official hearings). They're always there. When I turn around to say I represent 50,000 people, there's nobody standing there for me. So they say, 'Where?' Well, they're in Livermore.

"Pressures for unrbanization are worse than they will ever be because there's no water. But we still have to keep rational thought as to how fast we can grow — how many people can live here and survive environmentally, how much economic stress can the taxpayers take to provide services, how can we all live here."

Raymond concurred, declaring there is no way development will endlessly continue.

"If you look at the Bay Area as a whole, there's enough land zoned or planned for something like 25 million people. And the highest estimate I've seen for the year 2000 is six million people, and I think that tells you there's a hell of a lot of land out there that just is not going to develop."

Continuing surburban sprawl makes it almost impossible to maintain urban population centers such as Oakland, Raymond said. "I think we would all agree that if Oakland folds, so to speak, that it would have major adverse economic impacts on the whole region, and I don't think we can let that happen."

DANVILLE— At least three of the 11 candidates seeking the three positions open on the San Ramon Valley Unified School District board are opposed to the lease purchase bond issue to be voted upon May 31.

Candidates expressed their viewpoints at a forum conducted by the League of Women Voters and attended by a standing room only audience of 70 Wednesday night.

Expressing opposition to the $17 million plus issue tied to keeping abreast of growth were Gregory L. McCoy, Joan M. Scott and Patrick Neil Althizer.

McCoy opined that "I don't think we can pass it at this time. We should consider year 'round schools instead.

Mrs. Scott said the measure should be rewritten and Althizer claimed he would rather see double sessions than more taxes.

All other candidates present expressed support for the lease purchase measure, seen as a means to catch-up with mushrooming growth in the southern end of the district, additions to existing facilities and site purchases.

Two candidates felt the 99-page contract proposal presented by teachers was largely "non-negotiable." Incumbent and board president Harold Zuckerman, following McCoy's estimate of "half of it being non-negotiable," said, "I think you may be a little bit low. I believe about 70 per cent of their contract proposal is non-negotiable. I think you (audience and other candidates) should know the contract is a standard CTA contract. They print them up by the bushel over there in Burlingame (at California Teachers Association headquarters) and send them out to the districts."

During the questions portion of the program, candidates were asked if they would actively support a class in basic academic proficiency and discipline, "such as the Mount Diablo Unified School District has."

Donald Sledge said he would, if certain schools were designated for the fundmentalist - type of curriculum. Mrs. Scott and Harline Kruger both said they would support such a class.

Ronald Harris, an executive with Clorox in Pleasanton, qualified his response by saying the district should strive to be in the top 10 per cent of districts, academically, with comparable socioeconomic backgrounds.

On the question of pod-open space schools, Sue Cramer, president of the California High Parents Club and one of two candidates from the San Ramon area, said she didn't care for pod schools. "I believe if Neil Armstrong had doors and walls, it wouldn't have gone up in smoke.

Robert Schepman said open space schools had been derived as an experiment. "I think the trend now is back to more traditional-type schools."

Candidates were also asked to respond to a host of other questions from the audience, including, "Should teachers be held accountable for progress of children in their classes?" and, "Should their be standards for teachers tied to retention of their tenure?"

Next candidates night is next Wednesday when the Valley Action Forum will host the program at the District Educational Center at 7:30 p.m.

Municipal court actions

LIVERMORE — Two men were arraigned in municipal court here this week on various charges stemming from a high speed chase Feb. 13, involving a Livermore police car.

William Gordon Dixon, 19, 5482 San Juan Way, Pleasanton, and James Edward Dixon, 23, San Ramon, were charged with using their car to assault Sgt. L. Morrison after a chase police said reached 117 miles per hour.

The chase began after the suspects allegedly "burned rubber" near Second and L streets. The chase went to Charlotte Way and in the residential Irene Way.

Morrison said the suspects' car slid sideways at one point, making a 180 degree turn before the collision. Police reports were not clear which suspect was the driver.

In other court acton:

— Michael Joe Dedmon, 19, Oakland, was found guilty of the May 7 attempted burglary of Will's Men's Shop, Dublin, and sentenced to five days in county jail.

— Bryce Aldon Frazier, 22, Dublin, pleaded not guilty to charges he possessed stolen scuba diving equipment from a residence at 7704 Ironwood, Dublin.

Strike vote Tuesday?

The Amador teacher unit leadership voted earlier this week to set aside $1,200 "to resolve the conflict." Woolworth said these unit funds would be utilized for newspaper space and flyers to the community detailing teacher viewpoints.

Amador teacher negotiators, headed by Enoch Haga, are primarily at swords-point with administration over the issues of binding arbitration of grievances and salary.

In a negotiating team report earlier this week, Haga noted, "During negotiations it appeared to us that the district was attempting to get us to agree to a 7 per cent across the board salary increase. We declined this on the basis that it was an attempt to get us to take the same 3.74 per cent step and column increase that we had already just been awarded by the court. By accepting 3.6 per cent plus this 3.74 per cent, we would have been acknowledging the district's claim that it does not have to pay step and column increases, as well as possibly weakening our case on the district's appeal (by having accepted the money earmarked for these step and column increases)."

Because of the Washington's Birthday holiday Monday, schools will not be back in session after today until Tuesday morning.

SRV schools receive honor

DANVILLE — The San Ramon Valley Unified School District's administrative evaluation system has received an award of excellence from the National Educational Services Bureau, Washington, D.C.

One of 100 entries, the district's newly implemented personnel proceedure was awarded one of three honors for management systems. The system was developed last year by William Crozier.

Assesses Murphy

In her first public statement on the performance of former Supervisor John D. Murphy since taking office six weeks ago, Alameda County Supervisor Valerie Raymond characterized the man she defeated as one who could not keep up with changing times.

Commenting on poor communication in the past between the City of Livermore and the board of supervisors, Raymond said "A lot of that problem was caused by the previous incumbent (Murphy).

"Mr. Murphy was a gentleman who found it very hard to talk with a number of people, not just the City of Livermore. He was basically a person who found it difficult to cope with changing concerns that we have, and really wasn't prepared to take time in trying to resolve them.

Livermore youth in BofA test

Mark Linde of Livermore is one of four second - year students nominated by Chabot College to compete in the first round of Bank of America's 1977 Community College Awards program.

Students were selected on the basis of academic record, school and community activities, and character and leadership qualities. The students also were asked to respond to a philosophical question: "In view of developments in the United States during the past 100 years, what would you hope to contribute to society during your lifetime?"

Also nominated, in addition to Linde in science - engineering, were Sherril Metcalf, business; Joy Lokken - Hansen, social science - humanities; Robbie Sherwood, technical - vocational.

These students will compete against winning students from neighboring community colleges in a semi - final event March 23 at the Hyatt Edgewater in Oakland.

More flags will be distributed to second graders throughout California and Nevada today. This ceremony is an annual event of the International Lions Club. Feb. 18 was chosen since that date falls between the birthdays of Lincoln and Washington. Lion Bo Isaeff distributed the flags to the group of second graders pictured. Livermore trustee hopefuls speak on school issues

Rich Gower

Livermore school board candidate Rich Gower says he's found "the same questions and concerns about our school district everywhere" in the community.

In a campaign release, Gower observed:

"Our present school board members are present at many of these functions and they sing the same old song, they backpedal on the basic issues. come to the same conclusions at almost every turn in the conversation. Most of their time is spent telling us what a great job they have done for our schools, and the many problems they solve, while these same problems are being passed through the weekly board meetings with little or no action being taken.

"There is one issue which I feel has really not surfaced yet, the many violations of Title IX by our school board and our administration, which refers to the discrimination against woman in our district, particularly in the area of hiring top level administrative positions, down to the lack of equal athletic programs for the many fine athletes in our district.

"We could lose all or part of our federal assistance if something isn't done soon to correct the many violations.

"I am really trying to bring out the many areas which we should all be concerned with, and to make an attempt to improve our school district at all levels — educational, athletic, administrative.

"I need your help. If you feel our district can be improved by a change in school board which in turn will change our district administrative policies, join with me. You may call me at 443-6257 or 635-2164 or contact me at my home, 1450 Helsinki Way."

Gail Sidhu

At a coffee at the home of Jim and Margaret Tracy, Livermore school board candidate Gail Sidhu recently discussed the school district's progress on setting up curriculum guidelines.

"Tremendous amounts of time and effort by teachers and parents have been given to set up a final curriculum guidelines. This has been part of a program to get parents and teachers involved. However, adequate curriculum has been available from the state and county school boards," she noted.

"Teacher time is better spent in the classroom. Parent - teacher involvement is necessary and desirable in solving the many problems that do not have readily available solutions."

Foothill library needs may get voluntary aid

PLEASANTON — The Foothill High School library is almost four years old, but school money has been severely curtailed and the library is a long way from having sufficient books, staff and funds, according to Nancy Eby.

The National Library Association, Mrs. Eby notes, recommends 200 books per student. At present, Foothill has 2½ books per student.

Foothill librarians and parents are concerned about the situation and are forming a Friends of the Library Committee. Volunteers are needed to work at the desk in the mornings, to help with the typing in the afternoons, and to work at raising funds for the purchase of necessary materials.

The library has an urgent need of certain items — file cabinets for pamphlets, large bulletin boards, old phonograph record jackets, and old typewriters.

But the most urgent need is money to purchase photographic supplies, instructional materials, and particularly books at sales. Books purchased with school funds require a purchase order and are almost necessarily at full price; the same books can often be bought at a library sale for prices ranging as low as 25 cents.

Used books in good condition and paperbacks are very welcome gifts.

Members of the community who have money, materials or labor to donate to the library are urged to contact the librarian, Cheree Hethershaw at 462-1615, or Nancy Eby at 846-2570.

Livermore schools list newly hired teachers

LIVERMORE — Six new teachers are joining the Livermore Unified School District in mid - year.

Recently approved by the school board were the following new employes:

Patricia Ann Calvert, fourth grade half - time teacher at Arroyo Mocho; Antonia Christoff, Junction special education teacher; David Lovejoy, Junction English and social science teacher at Junction; Virginia Snyder, sixth grade teacher at Christensen; Linda Anne Wilcox, speech therapist; and William Wooten, Granada High driver education teacher.

Also, Evadine Davis, East Avenue School playground supervisor; Marie Fletcher, Mendenhall cafeteria assistant; Lloyd Curt Kilgore, master craftsman and carpenter; and Anita Santos, playground supervisor at Almond Avenue School.

Resigning from the district are: Betty Rasmussen, Smith School fourth grade teacher who has been on leave of absence this year; Sharon McKinley, senior clerk at Granada High; and Margaret Paulus, Smith School playground supervisor.

Jackson fifth grade teacher Virginia Badger has been granted a leave of absence for the coming school year.

Engineering banquet set in Livermore

Dr. Teller's subject will be "Is Technology Dehumanizing?"

Students being honored include Therese Geigk, Helen Ordaz, Marvel Walters, and Scott Williford of Livermore High; David Albert and Sally Morgan, Foothill High; Leah Fairbrother, Amador Valley High; Jeffery Mackanic, Granada High.

Murray campaigner seeks liaison units

Linda Cooley, a candidate for the Murray School District Board of Trustees, has proposed formation of a liaison committee from each school to report to the Board of Education.

The liaison committee, to be formed at the discretion of each individual school, will consist of parents, students and teachers.

This committee would meet with the Board prior to each board meeting held at their respective schools. They would then have the opportunity to discuss their problems and their successes first hand.

Hopefully, the school community would have an opportunity to send written communiques for presentation at this meeting if they cannot attend, notes Mrs. Cooley.

Long an active parent participant in the district, Mrs. Cooley says she strongly believes the board cannot effectively make decisions affecting the schools and the students if they have not listened to each school community. As the formidable trustee meetings now stand, adds Mrs. Cooley, this option is not available and does not always permit the rapport necessary for a harmonious community environment.

Any questions concerning Mrs. Cooley's campaign should be directed to 6730 Menlo Ct., Pleasanton, or by calling 846-7695.

Bob Schepman, a candidate for the San Ramon Valley School District Board of Trustees, after touring the district's schools, feels that parent involvement is the important key to better communication between home and schools. He feels that this communication should be extended between the parents and board members so that the board can effectively reflect the communities' interests in setting policy.

Diana and Jerry Olson and Wendy Wilkins have captured this theme of parent involvement, Schepman notes, by organizing an old-fashioned ice cream social as a fund-raiser for his campaign.

The total family is being included in the event to be held at the Grange Hall, 743 Diablo Rd., Danville, on Sunday, Feb. 27 from 2 to 4 p.m.

The ice cream is being purchased from Loard's in Danville.

The Bay Street Banjo Band will provide the music. Donations are $4 per adult and 50 cents per child. Tickets are available through members of the Schepman for Schools Committee — Marilyn McCurdy, Jean Arrogoni, Diana and Jerry Olson, Wendy Wilkins, Mike Nelson, and Bruce Pettigrew.

Cultural exchange with Japan spurred

LIVERMORE — Livermore teachers are invited to participate in a cultural exchange program with Japan.

The new program, run by teacher Sam Cohen, is called the Livermore Educators Exchange Program (LEEP). It's part of the Japanese - American Cultural Exchange Program (JACEX), co - directed by Cohen.

Local teachers will be able to visit Japan from July 18 to Aug. 18 "The idea," says Cohen, who has made many trips to Japan and has had Japanese visitors in his home, "is for local teachers to gain an appreciation and interest in Japanese culture. It will make them much more effective in the classroom as well as providing them with a one - month trip that costs $995, less than the normal air fare alone."

Teachers will stay in homes in Shizuoka, a city midway between Tokyo and Osaka, Japan. They'll visit schools, farms, factories, businesses, governmental offices and other institutions.

Highlights include a climb up Mt. Fuji (weather and soil conditions permitting); a trip to the historic areas of Kyoto and Nara; a 10 - day visit to Livermore's new sister city, Yotsukaido.

Registration deadline is Feb. 25 and there are only three places left. Details and application forms are available from Cohen at 443 - 5290.

Arbitration

With Livermore and Murray school contract talks behind us for a while, and with San Ramon, Pleasanton and Amador to go, there is perhaps opportunity for the people to ask: "Exactly what is the contract crisis of 1976-77 all about?"

School trustees will tell you "the bottom line is compulsory arbitration." That is what new state legislation allows; that is what teacher unions demand; and that is what school boards are most reluctant to accept.

"We are elected by and responsible to the people," is the explanation of Manuel Prado, president of the Livermore Unified District board of trustees. "We cannot yield that responsibility to any third party."

But it seems the school boards have already given up much of their power ... to the professionals who do the actual negotiating, and to the legislature which reserved unto itself a school district's spending limits, including the local tax that can be levied.

"When we have just so much money to spend," Manuel Prado explains, "then we cannot grant teacher demands beyond that limit, even if every board member wanted to." He sees the Livermore "cash tolerance" in these matters as "about three percent of our total budget. ... that's all there is to play with." It is about the same for all school systems.

(Under the high court's recent ruling on Serrano - Priest, those spending limits will be even tighter.)

The state and federal governments exercise further control on local spending through grants for "the educationally disadvantaged" ... tieing local budgeting to special classes, special education aids. More and more the weight of public school decision - making is shifting away from the community, away from the local board.

When teachers go to war over "inadequate salary standards" their battle is not really with the community or its board of education; rather they seek to get Sacramento's attention onto these alleged inequities. The community can do little more than sympathize, and join in the screaming, if that is our choice.

Some one should take the time to explain all that to the local populace. ... to those who come wailing "what are the trustees doing to our teachers!?" We don't mind being part of the drama, but each of us is entitled to know exactly what part we can play, and why.

Whose rights?

There was cheering in some quarters when a United States District Court in Idaho ruled that inspections under the Federal Occupational Safety and Health Act (OSHA) are in conflict with the US Constitution. "Must get a court order before you can enter private property," the court said, in effect.

The "free at last" elation among property - rights' advocates was soon dimmed, in California at least, when this state's own OSHA ruled it operates under California codes that do indeed provide "right of entry" as part of those on - site inspections.

While finding no fault with the thrust of OSHA — to improve working conditions for all Americans — it does seem strange that what constitutes "illegal entry" in other states, is not a violation of property rights in California.

"Where the state has a specific constitutional provision covering that matter, then it reserves the right to rule on the constitutionality covered therein," one jurist explained to us. And what if the sovereign state of Alabama decides its constitution allows whites to discriminate against blacks?

"That's different," our informant stated.

Lots of things are different, between Idaho and California, between California and Alabama, and in the matter of whose rights are being gored.

But aren't we all part of one nation, under one constitution? "It all depends," they say — on whether your concern is for civil rights or property rights. It's a great era for the former, not too encouraging for the latter.

"What can we do to check vandalism by local children?"

That is a question asked by those who see parks damaged, trees destroyed, golf courses ripped up by senseless use of a vehicle. It is a problem that is costly in dollars; worse, it helps destroy the respect society holds for all young people, the guilty and the innocent.

That was the challenge facing students at Harvest Park Elementary School. A few students at that school had were thought to be responsible for the destruction of young trees in Amador Valley Community Park. ... a park that provides daily enjoyment for hundreds and sometimes thousands of youngsters.

Perhaps it was because they wanted to show gratitude for that park; perhaps it was pride in the school which had been given a bad name; but whatever the reason, eighth grade students at Harvest Park School got together to stage a car wash, raise some money, and then appear before the city council with cash in hand ... "to help replace the trees."

Those eighth graders have set an example for every youngster, and for every adult. We all destroy, litter, degrade our environment. It takes courage to face up to our guilt; it takes pride to want to make it right. The students at Harvest Park School have shown us a great deal of both.

FOCUS/Amador teachers

Equitable wages?

Are teachers in the Amador Valley Joint High School District being paid a fair and equitable wage, aside from benefits?

Some will argue that a true judgement can only be made by comparing the salary schedules and benefits afforded teachers in districts of similar size and location.

Perhaps.

Through a Superior Court decision just rendered, certificated personnel in the district, which encompasses high schools serving Dublin, Pleasanton and Sunol, have had their salary schedule "unfrozen." The Amador district board took the action to freeze salaries at the 1975-76 level last summer.

While the verdict is welcomed by all teachers concerned, it will be appealed by the administration and this latter act has triggered angry retorts, at least on the part of the teacher unit leadership.

This is understandable, though we sometimes wonder how many of the Amador district teachers are content to accept what they get and hope for better days (Yes, gang, we know you can't pay bills with hope!)

In an effort to more fully examine the current state of affairs which finds teachers and administration at loggerheads over a contract and seemingly going no place fast, The Times has obtained what the school district refers to as a "scattergram," showing the number of teachers at various steps on the salary schedule.

The copy is the certificated salary schedule for 1975-76, the last one in force before the freeze.

The salary schedule lists six classes (from Class I, an AB degree and no additional units, to Class VI, an AB degree plus 75 units) with 12 steps.

The salary range is from an entry level salary of $9,630 (one person at that step) to a top of $20,601 (10 teachers at this step).

A vast majority of all the teachers in the district are in Class VI, which ranges from a "Step 4" salary of $14,615 (four persons) to the aforementioned $20,601.

In fact, 104 teachers are in Class VI. Thirty-five are listed on the scattergram as being at $19,608, eight at $18,978, 10.5 full-time equivalent at $18,355, 6.5 at $17,732, and so on down to the bottom steps in Class VI.

Forty-five are in Class V, which ranges from $13,305 to $18,625. There are 25 in Class IV ($12,058 to $17,649), 31.6 full-time equivalent in Class III ($10,876 to $16,146), 4.6 in Class II ($10,748 to $14,707) and three in Class I.

Teachers are granted up to and including six years for past teaching experience and possessors of MA degrees receive $400.

After completing four years at Class VI, Step 12 ($19,608), teachers receive a $500 longevity increment. An additional $500 increment is given at the completion of eight years at that step.

This, in rather brief form then, is what Amador teachers have been paid.

In following editions, a scattergram covering Pleasanton teachers will be presented along with salary schedules from comparable districts in the Bay Area.

The contract woes of both districts have reached a critical stage. With greater citizen input and understanding, perhaps ratification can be obtained before thoughts of "striking" are given further credence.

Letters to the Times

SRV school needs

Editor, The Times:

I'm not an educator, I'm a businessman. But as a long-time community activist and as a parent, I do have some pretty firm ideas on education. ...

I believe every individual who graduates from our school system must ... be qualified to function as an adult in our society.

This means that he or she must be able to read a newspaper, write a letter, communicate orally well enough to be understood, balance a checkbook, vote, etc.

Once we are assured that every graduate has this basic education, we can then work on turning out real contributors to society, which needs many skills; not all of them require college training. ...

What does bother me is the fact that we have had to hire reading and language skills specialists to teach kids remedial reading and writing at late academic levels, because their learning problems were ignored in early years.

Reading and writing skills should begin being learned at the elementary school level and progress annually through remaining school years. We should not have to play "catch-up ball."

The growth projection for students in our (San Ramon Valley) school system is 16,500 by 1980. Many new teachers will be needed to match this surge in enrollment. We must hire carefully, ... we must not ignore vocational training. ... The new bond issue contains provisions for completing the high schools. All our high school graduates will have an equal opportunity for the training they want and need, be it vocational or academic.

Good pet report

Editor, The Times:

I am writing in response to the January 28 article on raccoons as pets, and would like to commend Times reporter Sue Vogelsanger for realistically describing the behavior of a raccoon in captivity. Frequently, people return from camping trips to Yosemite with a keen desire to acquire this feisty creature of the forests. Most individuals are unprepared — and usually unwilling — to assume the many long-term responsibilities and lifestyle compromises involved in such a venture. Instead of simply taking a few pictures and jotting down a superficial tale of "A day in the life of Sassafras the raccoon", Ms. Vogelsanger recognized the need for a more serious delineation of owner responsibilities and listened carefully while I outlined care required. While studying raccoon behavior in graduate school, I encountered many lovers of procyon lotor who became disillusioned when their pet matured and became unpredictable. To trap or capture this intelligent clown of the woods is cruel, and human beings should instead appreciate them in their natural habitat.

Please relay my appreciation to Ms. Vogelsanger. Her professional skill in recounting stories of local interest has been demonstrated frequently in her conscientious coverage of Dublin Library, and the staff always looks forward to her visits. Whether writing about raccoons or books, she communicates with a flair!

Firemen help

Editor, The Times:

I would like to express my sincerest thanks on behalf of the Golden Bay Chapter of the Muscular Dystrophy Association covering Alameda, Contra Costa, Napa and Solano counties to the firefighters in these areas. The firefighters continually help our association and therefore our patients, year after year. They personally place our canisters in businesses throughout our four counties, chaperone special fund-raising events and sit on our advisory board. They are a fabulous group of people who I am very proud to be associated with.

Thank you and God bless you always — for caring 24 hours a day about other people's needs.

Poor education

Editor, And Parents:

Are you tired of our poor educational system? Are you tired of your children not learning, or the teachers saying or sending home grades that your child is doing fine, when he or she are falling behind. Do you know what — and how well your child is doing in school?. Did you know that 75% of our top graduating students fail a basic test in writing skills, on entering into college. Did you know that the supreme court ruled last month that the states financing of public education was unconstitutional.

A lot of tax money has been wasted experimenting with education, its time all parents demanded good education in the state of California.

How many parents would like to do away with tenure? How many of us have a guarantee that if we do a poor job we wont be fired.

round the town

"If the man calls while I'm out about washing the windows tell him yes, we're interested."

It is of such incisive messaging that marriages thrive, wars are won, windows are washed. But not always.

Time was when I was the chief window washer of Pane Manor. One room every Saturday. Except when it rained; if the weather was too sunny, golf interfered. Sometimes took an entire year to scrub every pane in the house.

"No big hurry," I would surmise. "Sooner they're washed, sooner they get dirty again."

It was shortly after that when Lady of House contacted Mr. Smith, the window washer. Got him through a friend of a friend. The Suburban Connection.

"What happens after I tell the man 'we're interested'?" I ask. But it is too late. She is off on other worlds to conquer. The fateful decision on whether or not our windows are to be washed is left to Mr. Smith and to me. A traumatic moment.

Turns out it isn't Mr. Smith who returns our call, but rather his answering service. "Just tell Mr. Smith we're interested," . I inform The Voice. "Any day after 8 a.m." That is the sum of our conversation, The Voice and I.

Lady of House returns to her nest. "Did the window washer call?" she asks. "More or less," I explain. The whole thing is very uncertain.

Monday morning she is up with the Blue Jays. "Didn't you say the window washer was coming today at 8 a.m.?" she insists.

No, I explain carefully, I did not say it was to be today, or any day. Only that "we're interested, he's interested." One cannot rush these delicate negotiations, particularly where glass is involved.

By 8:30 we are done with breakfast and the morning papers. Ready to plunge into the world of business and the press. And then the window washer arrives.

"I thought you said he wasn't coming today," Lady of House says. I see no point in responding. There are extra sensory vibes betwixt answering services and ladies of house that I will never comprehend.

Mr. Smith proves to be speedy, and aggressive; very aggressive.

"One of the windows was stuck," Lady of House explains, over the phone. "He tried to force it open and it broke. Do you think you could arrange to be home when the window repair people are here? I won't be here."

Ah what a tangled web we weave. The spiders are at work on Pane Manor.

Since she neglects to inform as to the hour the window repair people are to arrive, or even the pane to be replaced, I figure the whole mess is out of my hands.

At day's end the conversation goes thusly.

She: "The windows look nice, don't you think?"

Me: "Yes, he did a good job, and inexpensive too, except for that busted window."

She: "Thanks for being here when they fixed it, I never could have made it."

Me: "You are mistaken, woman. I was not here when the window was replaced. I was not informed when they would get here ... didn't even know which pane was busted."

She: "But then how did they know which window to fix? And how did they get into the house?"

A check with neighbor provides no enlightenment; we determine the window washer abandoned premises before the busted pane was replaced. No help there.

"I suspect the glass repair people, the answering service and the window washer are all on the same ESP wave length," I surmise, wisely. They don't tune us in because we're just the bill - paying owners.

Whatever did it, the window washer who was never scheduled came and did his thing; the window he broke was repaired by another visitor, unscheduled and unknown. We are discussing all these wonders of modern - day service at day's end.

"There's a very large mosquito buzzing around the room," she announces from the comfort of her pillow. "I think you ought to track it down before you come to bed."

I prepare to roll newspaper, to do battle with the winged beast. Then think better of it, and retire for the night.

"Aren't you going to get the mosquito?" she asks. No response. I figure the same magic that produced the uncalled - for window washer and got the busted window pane to replace itself, will surely dispense with one small mosquito.

It's the power of positive thinking. And by golly, it worked!

Judge Rose

Let us consider the appointment of Rose Elizabeth Bird, selected by Governor Jerry Brown to be the first woman Chief Justice of California.

Last year Senator John Holmdahl, a lawyer with extensive experience both in the private practice of law and in state and local government, proposed a change in the selection method for justices of the appellate and supreme courts.

Under the present system they gain office purely by being the political choice of the governor, subject only the approval of a commission on judicial appointments composed of the Attorney General, Chief Justice and a presiding appellate court justice.

Although they enjoy the facade of being elective officers their elections are merely a charade which comes subsequent to taking office. Their names appear on the ballot for twelve year terms. The people may vote yes or no on the question of whether they shall be retained. Since no candidate may oppose them there can be no visible opposition. None have ever been removed by the voters.

Holmdahl sought to give the people a greater voice in the approval of/filling the most important posts in the judicial branch of government. He wanted the appointments made subject to their elected representatives in the Senate. That is the method practiced in the federal government and it has worked well.

Since taking office in 1975 Brown has been obsessed with giving "minorities" and women greater opportunities to participate in government. This was a predominant consideration in his nomination of Bird. To the extent that those chosen possess qualifications equal to the high standards of others available for the jobs, this is well. And women judges would seem an essential ingredient for the administration of justice.

There are in California a number of women judges whose experience has qualified them for higher judicial office. But the governor ignored these as he reached out for Bird who has no judicial experience whatsoever.

In fact her legal experience has been limited. She has spent no time in private practice and her only work as a lawyer has been seven years as an assistant public defender, a post often filled by those barely out of law school. Even that experience does not meet constitutional requirements for superior court judgeship.

Brown said he wanted someone with "a good grasp on the way laws are made and the way they are administered because the insight that comes from that experience is very helpful in making the judgments required of a court." Appointed by Brown as cabinet secretary for agriculture and services, Bird has now had two years of administrative experience. This small stint as a high level official has demonstrated she shares the same contempt as the governor for elders and anyone with greater knowledge and experience. It is an arrogance unbecoming to man or woman.

What the people of California deserve and have every right to expect is a person of the highest qualifications as their chief justice. If such a person is a woman, fine. But Bird's limited background doesn't meet that criteria. It is obvious Brown knew that. Had he chosen a person of unquestionable legal and judicial experience he would have exhibited no trepidations about submitting the nomination.

Her selection therefore is a gross affront to the people and proves, better than anything else, Holmdahl's contention that such appointments should be submitted to the Senate for confirmation.

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — Does Ascriptin (aspirin with Maalox) have anything to do with minor strokes — speech mix-ups? After my first such attack, the doctor told me I was too old for a neurologist to accept. Then he gave me Ascriptin without changing the subject. After reading the Ascriptin label I assume it is to replace Tylenol for my arthritis.

My father's family died of major strokes. My mother had minor strokes, the year she died at nearly a hundred. So I may have years to go yet and wish to avoid crippling strokes and senility.

Too many doctors are too busy to bother with older people. Could you take time to help me avoid a crippling stroke? I do not recall reading about strokes in your column and would greatly appreciate any help you can give me. I am totally alone.

DEAR READER — I suspect that your doctor gave you Ascriptin because the aspirin in it helps prevent blood clotting. Some small strokes are caused by small parts of bloodclots breaking off of larger clots in arteries in the neck and seeding the brain. The aspirin helps to prevent the clots and may prevent strokes. A national study is under way on the benefits and dangers of using aspirin for this purpose and to prevent heart attacks.

Tylenol does not have this effect and is not used for that purpose. So I suspect your doctor was doing more than just replacing Tylenol with Ascriptin as a pain reliever.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 8-8, Aspirin and Related Medicines so you can learn more about the effects of these common medicines beyond simple pain relief. There is a limit to how many of these you or anyone should take. Women should avoid any of these medicines before childbirth. Others who want more information on these medicines can send 50 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for the issue. Write to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

I hope that doctors are not taking the attitude that older people like yourself don't need help. I know many good neurologists who do see patients in consultation, like yourself, to resolve what the basic problem is and usually send them back to the family doctor.

It is a mistake to assume a person will only live a few more years because of the life expectancy factor. Some people live very productive lives for years, as in the case of your mother. Adenauer of Germany was still chancellor in his 90s and was vigorous until he died of pneumonia. In many other cultures people commonly live from 80 to 100 years of age. In fact, the average lifespan of the first seven presidents of the United States after George Washington was 81 years.

The best things that you can do to avoid strokes are the same things we do to avoid heart attacks. Controlling blood pressure seems to be of great importance. You can do this by keeping your weight down. Stay on a diet moderately low in fat and cholesterol, don't smoke and get some regular exercise, such as walking each day. This may stretch your years of enjoyment and help you prevent that crippling stroke for many years. I am also sending you The Health Letter number 2-5, on strokes to give you more information. And may you live to be a hundred and enjoy each day.

Q. "WHY DO ZEBRAS HAVE STRIPES?"
TINA TUCKER
WALNUT CREEK, CA
A. THE ZEBRA'S STRIPES ARE A FORM OF CAMOUFLAGE. THEY BREAK UP THE OUTLINE OF THE ZEBRA'S BODY, MAKING IT DIFFICULT TO BE SEEN AT A DISTANCE BY LIONS AND OTHER ENEMIES.

The zebra is the famous member of the horse family that wears stripes. These black or dark-brown stripes on a whitish background run all over the zebra's body, even down to the hoofs. They help hide the zebra from its enemies.

While the zebra's stripes make it stand out clearly when seen at close range in the zoo, everyone who has seen a zebra in its wild home on the grassy African plains will agree that the animal is not so easily recognized at a distance.

When seen from far away, the stripe pattern breaks up the outline of the zebra's body, making it difficulto to recognize as an animal. This helps the zebra to be overlooked by lions — the zebra's natural enemy — and other animals which hunt zebras for food.

In the wild, zebras roam in herds and eat grass, just as horses do. But zebras are difficult to tame and train because they are less gentle than horses.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Both sides in the Spingold finals reached four spades after a Jacoby transfer sequence. North's two-heart call was a transfer and guaranteed at least five spades. His jump to three notrump asked South to choose between a notrump and a spade game and both South players elected to play four spades. George Rosenkranz made the contract at his table. Now look what happened at the other one.

John Mohan opened a trump. South won in dummy and led a club to his jack which won the trick when John held back his ace.

Declarer cashed his ace of trumps, played another trump to dummy and led his second club.

What could go wrong?

He found out quickly. Roger Bates showed out and John let declarer's queen hold that trick also.

All of a sudden the cinch contract had become a sure loss. Actually, South managed to go down two tricks in a desperate salvage effort.

He played his jack of hearts. John ducked that card also. The 10 was played from dummy and Roger was in with the queen. He led a heart right back and South finessed as his last hope and wound up two down after John made the super brilliant shift to a diamond.

Ask the Jacobys

A Delaware reader wants to know if Charles Goren was ever a great bridge player.

The answer is that from 1936 when he won his first national title (as Oswald Jacoby's partner) until the early '60s when age began to slow him down, he was as good as anybody in the World.

AV, Pokes keep on winning

The Livermore Cowgirls held Foothill High School without a field goal in the fourth quarter to clinch a 48-28 East Bay Athletic League victory in Livermore last night.

In other EBAL games Amador Valley stayed one game ahead of the 'Pokes with a 55-26 trouncing of San Ramon, California edged Granada in overtime 35-32 and Monte Vista dumped Dublin 61-32.

Center Patti Shirley led the winners in scoring with 16 points while Diane Leri came off the bench in the second quarter to add 15.

For the Falcons, Kim Iverson graciously accepted a wealth of Poke fouls and connected on 75 percent of her free throw attempts to finish with 13 points.

But despite a couple of first-half rallies, the visitors were hardly in the ballgame.

With Shirley canning inside hoops at each end of the barrage Livermore opened up a 7-0 lead with five minutes gone before Foothill center Kelly Grogan tallied the Falcons' first points on a foul line jumper.

The Cowgirls kept their lead at four however, until Shirley fouled Iverson twice in the early going of that stanza.

Kim Iverson converted four straight free throws to cut the Pokes' advantage to 11-9 with 5:33 to go in the half. Although Shirley came back with a basket off a tip from Janet Paxiao, a breakaway lay-in by Iverson brought the Falcons back to within a hoop.

The tide shifted for good with 3:12 left in the second period when Leri entered the game to replace the foul-plagued Paxiao.

Diane quickly hit a pair of set shots.

Amador Valley jumped off to a 17-4 first-quarter lead and breezed from there.

Sheryl Withoft and Jayne Kuhns each had 14 points for the winners.

Nancy Kerlinger led the losers with six markers. Amador Valley had a 37-14 lead at halftime.

Nater foils Warriors

MILWAUKEE — Center Swen Nater hit a 12 - foot baseline jump shot at the buzzer Thursday night to give the Milwaukee Bucks a 99-97 National Basketball Association victory over Golden State Warriors.

The Bucks were led by Brian Winters' 22 points and Bob Dandridge's 18. Phil Smith's 28 led the Warriors, playing without Rick Barry who was injured in Sunday's All-Star game.

Winters put the Bucks ahead 97-96 with 1:02 left as the lead changed hands 11 times in the final four minutes. .

Smith was fouled by Winters with three seconds left, but hit only one of three charity attempts to tie it 97-97. The Bucks called time, then set up Nater's victory bucket.

The Warriors pulled ahead in the first quarter, led by Smith's eight points. Milwaukee went ahead 21-20 on Quinn Buckner's layup, but Smith helped regain the lead at 35-34 and 41-36 lead.

The Bucks led 46-43 at halftime and expanded it. A seven-point Warrior burst cut the Buck lead to 70-69 with 3:01 left in the third quarter.

Milwaukee's Fred Carter tied it 75-75 for Milwaukee.

NFL, players association reach tentative agreement

NEW YORK — After more than three years of often bitter negotiations, the National Football League and its players association reached the brink of labor peace Thursday.

Sargent Karch, executive director of the NFL Management Council, bargaining arm of the 28 member clubs, and Ed Garvey, executive director of the players association, jointly announced "an agreement in principle on a collective bargaining agreement that includes provision for a modified draft." The settlement followed two weeks of intensive talks, first in Washington at player association headquarters and then, for the past three days, in New York at the offices of the Management Council.

It was learned that the draft plan calls for a system that includes built-in negotiation time limits, similar to the draft now in use in the National Basketball Association.

That formula grants clubs negotiating rights to drafted players for one year only and allows players who do not sign within that time and do not play professional basketball in another league to return to the list of eligible players for the next year's NBA draft.

Neither side would comment on the NFL settlement, preferring to first present the agreement to separate meetings of owners and player representatives.

The players association has scheduled a meeting next Thursday of its executive committee which consists of president Dick Anderson of the Miami Dolphins, NFC vice president Len Hauss of the Washington Redskins and AFC vice president Gene Upshaw of the Oakland Raiders. The player representatives are scheduled to meet on Friday.

The Management Council was trying to arrange a meeting of its executive committee for next week as well. That body consists of Wellington Mara of the New York Giants, Rankin Smith of the Atlanta Falcons, Art Modell of the Cleveland Browns, Joe Robbie of the Miami Dolphins, Ralph Wilson of the Buffalo Bills, and George Halas Jr. of the Chicago Bears.

Even with early ratification, the college draft is unlikely to be held before April. That would be after the regularly scheduled meeting of NFL owners at the end of March in Phoenix, Ariz.
